

Take a walk in nature even if you're in the city!

How to take this break

This activity can be used during breaks at meetings or in group settings, and features a nature slide show with a narrator speaking or just the narrator speaking and employees visualizing what the narrator says. As the narrator leads the employee(s) on the walk, the slide would change (e.g., a hill to climb, a river to cross using a bridge or pointing to skydivers in the sky). At the end of the "walk" stretching is encouraged.

Why this counts - Relaxing

By incorporating relaxation into your day, you can drastically reduce stress levels in the body, and improve both your physical and mental health.

Go to Workplace Strategies for Mental Health for more ideas, tools and resources to help with the prevention, intervention and management of workplace mental health issues.

Ideas for this activity were contributed by

Myrna Ojala, Reg. N, Public Health Nurse, Sudbury & District Health Unit.

Take Your Break activities should be approved by your employer/leader prior to initiating them. Take Your Break activities are provided for general information only and are not intended to be a substitute for medical advice. Always consult your physician or appropriate health care provider with respect to your particular circumstances.